Investment objective and strategy

The investment objective of Federated Hermes Short-Term U.S. Prime Fund is to achieve current income while maintaining stability of principal and liquidity. The fund pursues its objective by investing in a portfolio of high quality (i.e., awarded one of the two highest short-term credit ratings of each recognised statistical rating organisation that has rated the security or been determined by the Advisor to be of comparable quality to securities having such ratings) US dollar denominated short-term debt instruments which comply with the criteria for money market instruments as set out in the UCITS regulations. The maximum weighted average maturity of the securities in the fund's portfolio will not exceed 60 days. The weighted average life of the fund's portfolio will be limited to 120 days or less. The types of debt securities in which the fund may invest, but is not limited to, include transferable securities listed or traded on regulated markets such as commercial paper & notes, repurchase agreements, variable rate instruments, and bank instruments, as well as shares of other short-term money market funds. The Central Bank has authorised the fund to invest up to 100% of its assets in US Government Agency Securities and US Treasury Securities on the basis that such securities will be comprised of at least six different issues and any one issue will not account for more than 30% of the net assets of the fund. The fund is considered a Short-Term Money Market Fund in accordance with the requirements of the Central Bank Notices on money market funds. The securities in which the fund invests are restricted to securities which have a residual maturity until the legal redemption date of less than or equal to 397 days.

Investment manager's report

The Federal Reserve's annual central-bank symposium at Jackson Hole, Wyo. is essentially a Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) meeting minus an actual decision, with statements coming from interviews with many members and remarks by the chair. The conference that took place last week was remarkably similar to last year's, with tough talk about slaying inflation and projections of the next policy action. But unlike 2022, when the rate path was extraordinarily steep, Chair Jerome Powell seemed to equivocate, outlining the conditions that would prompt the Fed to consider further hikes without promising any. The conditions are, of course, economic data. But one got the feeling he was returning to the tactic of providing forward guidance. The markets once again are disregarding Fed speak, pricing in no fewer than four quarter-point cuts in 2024. Powell's real message was to disabuse investors of this view. In so many words, expect higher for longer. This outlook could translate to another quarter-point hike rate, more likely at the November FOMC meeting than September's. It's important to remember the Fed usually is biased to its current direction. It prefers long ramps to switchbacks. The last thing policymakers want is to reverse direction if they ease too soon and inflation rises again-losing credibility and effectiveness in the process. This is probably why Powell pushed back on the recent speculation the Fed might raise its inflation target higher than 2% because of various structural shifts in the global economy. He wants the markets to stop looking for justification for fighting the Fed. At the end of the month, yields on 1-, 3-, 6- and 12-month U.S. Treasuries were 5.39%, 5.46%, 5.51% and 5.40%, respectively; the 1-, 3-, 6- and 12-month Bloomberg Short-Term Bank Yield Index rates (BSBY) were 5.38%, 5.57%, 5.78% and 5.98%, respectively.

About Federated Hermes

A financial industry pioneer since 1955, Federated Hermes, Inc. ("Federated Hermes," formerly, "Federated Investors, Inc.") is one of the largest US investment managers. Known for our stability, diligence and diverse product line, Federated Hermes takes the long view, believing that doing business the right way over time will present opportunity for future growth. We apply the same approach to managing our international undertakings, which began in 1984 with the launch of one of the first international equity funds. Since then Federated Hermes has established a host of international funds and offices, including Hermes Fund Managers Ireland Limited in Dublin to manage Irish domiciled UCITS, Federated Hermes (UK) LLP (formerly Federated Investors (UK) LLP), to manage UK-domiciled UCITS, as well as the Federated Hermes Short-Term Daily U.S. Dollar Fund, Ltd., based in the Cayman Islands. Highly experienced investment professionals direct our operations, and we continually look to increase our robust global footprint through organic growth and strategic acquisitions.

The value of an investment can go down as well as up and return on your investment will therefore be variable. Income (yield) may fluctuate in accordance with market conditions and taxation arrangements. Changes in exchange rates may have an adverse effect on the value price or income of the product, depending on an investor's home currency.

An AAAM rating by Standard & Poor's is obtained after S&P evaluates a number of factors, including credit quality, market price exposure and management. S&P monitors the portfolio weekly for developments that could cause changes in the ratings. Fitch's money market fund ratings are an assessment of a money market fund's capacity to preserve principal and provide liquidity through limiting credit, market and liquidity risk. Ratings are based on an evaluation of several factors, including credit quality, diversification, and maturity of assets in the portfolio, as well as management strength and operational capabilities. Ratings are subject to change and do not remove market risks.

Total return represents the change in value of an investment after reinvesting all income and capital gains. Total return was not calculated according to the BVI method.
