Investment objective and strategy

Liquidity and income in line with current market rates to the extent consistent with the preservation of capital. Investments limited to types of money market instruments, provided they are denominated in US dollars and have a remaining maturity of 397 days or less. Will be managed in a way to maintain an overall weighted average maturity not to exceed 60 days and a weighted average life of 120 days or less. Will only invest in either securities which have been rated (or whose issuers have been rated) in the highest short-term rating category by a US nationally recognized statistical rating organization or in unrated securities that have been determined by the investment manager or sub-advisor to be of comparable quality.

Investment manager's report

The Federal Reserve again left rates unchanged in the 5.25-5.00% range at its policy-setting meeting Nov. 1, pushing the fate of its inflation-fighting campaign to at least December. The beleaguered central bank seems finally to have caught a break, with two factors aiding its cause and buying it time.

First, the bond market is doing the Fed a favor with its ferocious backup in yields from the belly of the yield curve outward. In theory, this acts like policy tightening as it discourages borrowing, business planning and a host of reactions that could dampen activity. However, Chair Jerome Powell said policymakers want to see if the tighter financial conditions continue and don't think the rise in long-term yields is due to near-term shifts in policy expectations.

Then there's the economy itself, a case study in mixed signals. As stunning as the September jobs report was with an addition of 336,000 jobs-the largest monthly gain since January-temporary help fell, household employment barely rose, and two other labor-market reports (ADP and Challenger) were weak.

Likewise, a consumer-fueled jump in third-quarter GDP growth of 4.9%-the biggest gain since the fourth quarter of 2021-has been tempered by mediocre manufacturing reports, poor affordability for homebuyers and vanishing corporate spending.

Most important, of course, is inflation, which remains well above the Fed's 2% target. All told, we think the December Federal Open Market Committee meeting is an active one, meaning a quarter-point hike is possible. If the Fed forgoes action, we can't rule out a hike in 2024.

At the end of the month, yields on 1-, 3-, 6- and 12-month U.S. Treasuries were 5.39%, 5.47%, 5.57% and 5.42%, respectively; the 1-, 3-, 6- and 12-month Bloomberg Short-Term Bank Yield Index rates (BSBY) were 5.39%, 5.63%, 5.79% and 5.89%, respectively.

About Federated Hermes

A financial industry pioneer since 1955, Federated Hermes, Inc. ("Federated Hermes," formerly, "Federated Investors, Inc.") is one of the largest US investment managers. Known for our stability, diligence and diverse product line, Federated Hermes takes the long view, believing that doing business the right way over time will present opportunity for future growth. We apply the same approach to managing our international undertakings, which began in 1984 with the launch of one of the first international equity funds. Since then Federated Hermes has established a host of international funds and offices, including Hermes Fund Managers Ireland Limited in Dublin to manage Irish domiciled UCITS, Federated Hermes (UK) LLP (formerly Federated Investors (UK) LLP), to manage UK-domiciled UCITS, as well as the Federated Hermes Short-Term Daily U.S. Dollar Fund, Ltd., based in the Cayman Islands. Highly experienced investment professionals direct our operations, and we continually look to increase our robust global footprint through organic growth and strategic acquisitions.
